RUNNING HORSES FROM HARRISBURG AT FAIR GROUNDS

Six More Join String Quartered at West End Track Stables.

F. H. Barnett and Ben Frank
After Entries.

NOTES OF THE COUNTY FAIR.

Six running horses arrived yesterday from Harrisburg, Ill., to join the already long string of horses at the fair grounds stables. All the horses are good ones, and have been in demand at the fair in Illinois and Indiana. T. H. Barnett arrived in charge of the horses, and they will be entered in the fair next Wednesday. The names of the horses are: Decia, Pleno, Red Robin, Dry Dollar, Pearl Hopkins, Silk Sox. The horses look the part, and will make some of the runners travel for the first purges.

T. H. Barnett left today for Madisonville, where he will secure other horses for the Paducah fair. Ben Frank, who made a trip last week and secured the horses, left today for Vincennes, Ind., Marion, Ill., and Union City, Tenn. He will advertise the Paducah fair, and secure other horses. It is expected that by next Wednesday, the opening day, there will be 60 running horses and 40 harness horses. This will insure plenty of good racing.

Fair Decorations.
The opening of the fair is drawing nearer each day and if the merchants and farmers do their part this year's fair will be a grand success and an inducement for fairs on a larger scale in the future.

The fair association will complete its decorations in floral hall this week. Some of the merchants have been decorating in their booths a colored scheme of red, white and blue is being effectively carried out in the decorations, consisting of bunting and cheese cloth. Yellow has also been used, making a good distinction.

Every one of the 16 booths have been taken. Covington Brothers, wholesale grocery dealers, will occupy three spaces. The main entrance to the floral hall will be in the center of the grandstand directly in front of the gates. The entrance will be made attractive and the Paducah Tracilon company will occupy the booth facing the entrance. The floral hall will attract the attention of the crowds. The booths to be occupied by local and out-of-town concerns, extended the entire length of the grandstand along the north side. The main hall will be very wide. Along the posts between the main aisle will be shown cases where all kinds of fancy work will be shown in show cases. Eight show cases have already been secured with promises of more. There will be ample space for the tobacco exhibit, which will occupy the east end of the south side. The west end will be used for the display of fruits, vegetables, farming products, etc. There will be one refreshment booth in the hall at the east end entrance.

The shaded grounds from the grandstand to the gates will be filled with numerous displays and many attractions. Pig pens are extended along the west fence and the live stock pen, 20x50 feet in dimensions, will be situated nearby. The poultry tent will be situated on the right hand side of the pathway. This tent will be 20x50 feet in dimensions. Among the other displays will be the model dairy of S. A. Fowler, which will attract much attention. In the way of amusements the fair association has secured a merry-go-round, fortune teller, snake charmer, etc. No buggies or vehicles of any description will be allowed on the main grounds. Several concessions west of the grandstand have been let.

The success of the fair depends upon the merchants of Paducah and the farmers of the county. The merchants, who are to make displays of their stocks will follow out the color scheme in their booths and the hall will be beautiful. Farmers are expected to bring their products to the fair and all are asked to take an interest in the fair.

Next Tuesday an entry clerk will be on hand at the hall and all who are going to make exhibits will have their property registered in order to avoid the rush of the opening day, which will be Wednesday. Visitors at the fair will be warned to not handle the exhibits and especially the tobacco display. Stallings will be set up to avoid this.

President Wm. Taft and Roosevelt Lunch Together Today and Confer About the Situation in New York

Democratic Congressional Committee Begins to Figure on Large Majority in Lower House of Congress.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 19.—President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt will hold a political conference here late this afternoon, ostensibly to talk over the New York situation. Roosevelt lunched at the home of Henry C. White with President Taft, Lloyd Garrison, Otto T. Barnard and Charles E. Norton, the president's secretary, who said he had arranged the meeting when Roosevelt requested through Lloyd Garrison.

Democrats Count Their Chances.

Washington, Sept. 19.—Before the Democratic landslide in Maine last Monday calculations emanating from Democratic sources as to what the relative strength of the two parties would be in the Sixty-second congress placed the Democrats in control of the house by about 75 majority, but since rock-ribbed Republican Maine has gone Democratic from governor down to the legislature, thus insuring the election of a Democrat to the United States senate to succeed Senator Hale, advance figures of the probable strength of the Democrats in the next house of representatives give them a working majority of 191. It is estimated that there will be 246 Democrats and 145 Republicans in the house of the Sixty-second congress.

Try to Beat Tawney.

Few important primaries remain to be held, but they will be watched with extreme interest. The standard organization in control of Republican campaign headquarters is making every effort to have the necks of its followers in the remaining primaries, as they did in the district of Congressman Fowler, of New Jersey. In Minnesota, Oregon and Massachusetts the standpaters will endeavor to use the same tactics to defeat insurgents in districts where primaries are yet to be held. During the coming week the principal primaries will be held September 20 in Minnesota and September 24 in Oregon. The only other state primaries to be held during the present month are those of September 27 in Massachusetts. The only state which

MISS LEMOVE TOLD WITNESS
THEY WOULD MARRY
EVENTUALLY.

London, Sept. 19.—A domestic to marry Ethel Crippen, his wife, was established today as the motive for the alleged murder of Dr. Crippen of White Elm, Crippen, Mrs. Emily Jackson, Crippen's neighbor, testified today that Miss Lemove told her several weeks before the disappearance of Mrs. Crippen that she and the doctor were "only waiting for Mrs. Crippen to make good her threats to leave her husband, so the doctor could get a divorce." Miss Lemove had said she and Crippen would then be married, according to the testimony.

With Baseball Bat Assault is Made

J. L. Galtier, of 1835 Bridge street, a city sanitary inspector, saw his 10-year-old son Rudy, struck unmercifully yesterday afternoon by Sam Sasseen, of Mayfield, who used a baseball bat. After hurling a club at the Galtier lad, Sasseen is alleged to have picked up a bat with which the boys were playing and struck the lad a stunning lick over the spine. Mr. Galtier rushed to the scene and caught Sasseen's arm just as the bat was about to descend another time over the boy's body.

Sasseen was placed under arrest and taken to police headquarters by Mr. Galtier and Patrolman Rickman. Failure to give bail he was locked up on a charge of malicious assault and wounding with intent to kill. The case in police court today was continued to Thursday morning. Rudy Galtier and his brother Roy, aged 12, were playing catch with George Scott, a playmate, on the commons at Bridge and Clements streets yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock. Sasseen was reclining

IS IT RED STOKES?
Is the name of the victim of the Pool and murder mystery Red Stokes, of Lexington? His clue is being investigated by Attorney David Brown, who has written to the Lexington chief of police asking him for information concerning Stokes. Last week in Metropolis it was learned that John Hunt, a suspect, now in jail in Murphy'sboro, Ill., on the charge of larceny, told a barber that he was waiting for his pal, "Red" Stokes, of Lexington. Mr. Brown wrote to the chief of police but has not received a reply. A Lexington dispatch says that an investigation among the race horsemen failed to disclose anybody acquainted with "Red" Stokes.

makes any nominations in October is New York.

Several insurgent Republicans of the house belong to the Minnesota delegation, but one of the staunchest "stand-paters" of them all, James A. Tawney, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, and a close follower of Cannon, comes up for renomination. The insurgent members from Minnesota expect to be renominated and are hoping for the selection of an insurgent in place of Tawney.

Lodge Has Fight.

The result in Massachusetts will be very interesting. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, the "scholar in politics," is making a fight for his life. The announcement of Representative Henry S. Houtell, of Illinois, defeated for renomination by a progressive Republican, that he will run as an independent candidate pleases the Democrats. They consider Houtell an easy target, and if he runs independently the Democrats believe they will be able to carry the Houtell district and add to the majority they expect to obtain in the next congress. There are now six Democrats from Illinois.

The Democratic Figures.

Here is the way Democrats figure their 161 majority: Alabama 9, Arkansas 7, California 2, Colorado 3, Delaware 1, Florida 3, Georgia 11, Illinois 9, Indiana 12, Iowa 5, Kansas 3, Kentucky 19, Louisiana 7, Maine 2, Massachusetts 5, Maryland 5, Minnesota 3, Mississippi 5, Missouri 15, Montana 1, Nebraska 6, Nevada 1, New Jersey 5, New York 20, North Carolina 10, Ohio 15, Oklahoma 5, Pennsylvania 11, Rhode Island 1, Tennessee 8, Texas 16, South Carolina 7, Virginia 10, West Virginia 3, Wisconsin 5. Sasseen is said to have picked up a club and hurled it at Rudy, striking him on the back. His brother, Roy, interfered with a baseball bat, which is said to have been twisted from his grip by Sasseen, who made for Rudy. The blow felled the lad and he was unable to speak for several minutes. He is confined in bed and his injuries may result seriously owing to the spinal column being injured.

Sasseen is 20 years old and claims his home at Mayfield.

OPERATOR BLAMED FOR WRECK NEAR CAIRO YESTERDAY

Four Train Men of Mobile &
Ohio Are Killed Outright.

Man Arrested Offers Coroner
a Drink.

FREIGHT CARS ARE DERRIS.

Cairo, Ill., Sept. 19.—Four men were killed and one injured in a head-on collision on the Mobile & Ohio railroad one-half mile south of French Ridge inside the Cairo drainage district at 3:20 o'clock Sunday morning. The wreck was one of the worst that has happened in this vicinity for many years. The following is the list of killed and injured:

The coroner's jury adjourned until 3 o'clock this afternoon, when more witnesses will be heard. One witness this morning testified that the operator was duly sober when he left him that night. The indications are that the jury will hold both the operator and the railroad responsible for the disaster. The operator for negligence and the railroad for permitting such a man to hold so responsible a position.

The Dead.

CLAUDE ROLLINS, engineer M. & O. home at Jackson, Tenn.
JOHN CROSBIE, fireman M. & O. home at Jackson, Tenn.
WESTLEY E. STEVENSON, head brakeman M. & O. home at Jackson, Tenn.
An unknown negro stealing a ride and supposed to have gotten on train at Union City, Tenn.

The Injured.

F. A. BURGDORF, engineer St. L. & I. M. home at St. Louis.
The dead are at the undertaking establishment of Mrs. M. E. Heith and Engineer Burgdorf is at St. Mary's infirmary.

The cause of the terrible disaster is attributed to operator Charles E. Clark, of 3215 Park avenue, Cairo, who was sent to French Ridge to relieve Operator Albright yesterday morning. By all the evidence produced Clark was asleep and did not place the signal for the south-bound I. M. extra freight train to stop on the siding to await the M. & O. freight.

Running Thirty Miles an Hour.

The trains that met in collision were both freight trains. One was an M. & O. freight. First 332, engine No. 321, north-bound, with 20 cars, and the other train was an extra I. M. freight with 13 cars, south-bound. Both trains were running at the rate of 25 to 30 miles an hour when they met. They met on a perfectly straight track, but owing to a heavy cloud of fog that hung close to the ground neither engineer could see the other train until within 100 feet of each other, and even then the headlights were but sickly gleams of light, and the trains came together with an awful crash that practically wrecked both locomotives and smashed three cars on the Iron Mountain and five cars on the Mobile & Ohio, piling them up in a tangled mass.

Both Crews Jumped.

The crews on both locomotives jumped their engines. Engineer Burgdorf, on the I. M. train, put on the brakes before he jumped, then leaped out the cab window, alighting half way down the embankment and sustained two bad sprains and is at St. Mary's infirmary. Fireman A. Heller jumped out of the cab window, but was not injured. Conductor Buckner was in the cab of the engine riding there, as there was no engine on his train, having lost it and two cars at Thebes at 11 o'clock Saturday night in a rear-end collision with a train on the Chicago & Eastern Illinois. He jumped from the cab, but sustained only a few bruises.

Caught Under Debris.

On the M. & O. locomotive Engineer Rollins, Fireman Crobie and brakeman Stevenson all jumped from the cab on sighting the I. M. headlight, and all were killed instantly. The impact of the collision threw a car load of lumber upon them, burying them beneath its weight. The skulls of both of these men were crushed, and in the case of Engineer Rollins his body was also badly bruised. The negro who was killed was riding the tender of the M. & O. at the time. His head was smashed. The brakes on the M. & O. had not been applied.

Great Pile of Wreckage.

Hundreds of people from Cairo visited the scene of the wreck during the day. It presented a sad appearance. Both locomotives were badly damaged, the M. & O. engine being almost a total wreck. The

Louisville Board of Trade Head is Missing---Frank Nunemacher Severe Sufferer From Neuralgia

Family Worried About Disappearance Four Days Ago
---Crews All Fail---Circuit
Judges' Care Before Court.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 19. (Special)—No trace is found of Frank C. Nunemacher, president of the Board of Trade, who wandered away from home. Clues run down have proved without avail.

Frank C. Nunemacher, who is head of the printing and engraving firm of Frank C. Nunemacher, 418 West Main street, and one of the leading Republicans of the Fifth district, left his apartments on the third floor of the Weisinger-Gaulbert building, Third avenue and Broadway, early Friday morning, according to his family, and despite the fact that a close search has been made not the slightest trace of his movements or whereabouts has been obtained. Much apprehension is manifested by his family.

News of his disappearance was reported to the newspapers by his family and business associates. They say that for more than five months he has been suffering from severe attacks of neuralgia and believe that he wandered from his home while sick and probably delirious.

An investigation at local hospitals or infirmities disclosed that he has not visited such institutions. It is said. Such an investigation was made in the view that he may have become ill on the street and was taken there for treatment.

Stewart C. Nunemacher, son of Mr. Nunemacher and associated with his father in business, said that his father had been suffering from neuralgia for five months and a number of the attacks have been severe. He said that his father has not been at the office since Wednesday, and that for several days previous to his leaving home he had been under the care of a physician.

Just before retiring about 11 o'clock Thursday night his father stated that he did not have enough of the medicine which he had been taking to aid him in sleeping. Young Nunemacher is of the belief that his father was unable to sleep early Friday morning and that shortly after 5 o'clock he arose, dressed and started out for a walk. He was gone when his son arose at 6 o'clock.

Mr. Nunemacher said that the family had requested the aid of the police in finding his father, but that so far all efforts made have been unsuccessful in unearthing a clue. So far as he knows his father had but a small amount of money with him when he made his sudden departure.

NEGRO BURGLAR SHOTS TO DEATH ROCK ISLAND OFFI-CIAL.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Aroused by the screams of his little daughter, Florence C. Miller, chief clerk of the Rock Island railroad, grappled with a negro burglar in his home early today and was shot and killed. Three shots were fired into Miller's body as he struggled with the negro. Later William Jones, negro, was arrested as a suspect.

The negro was arrested several miles from the scene of the shooting after he had drawn his revolver on three policemen, who boarded a car in which he was riding. The officers say they had seen the fellow emerge from hushes in Chicago Heights and board the car. He was overpowered before he could open fire.

Indianapolis, Sept. 19.—This afternoon advices have been received from eight balloons who entered the contest. All have landed without approaching the record of G. W. Mix, 1121 Miles, established last year. The balloons still aloft are America II, Miss Sophia, Pennsylvania, Huckle and New York.

BADLY BEATEN BY BIG BROOMSTICK

ARMS, RIBS AND JAW ARE FRAC-TURED BY HEAVY BLOW OF WEAPON.

All that saved Annie Miller, alias "Little Bit," colored, living on South Tenth street near Caldwell street, Saturday night was her iron constitution; but she is still in a serious condition from wounds alleged to have been inflicted by Will Tucker, who is being held by the police on a charge of malicious assault and wounding with intent to kill. Annie was the recipient of several severe blows dealt with a broom stick. Her right arm was fractured above the elbow, her right jaw fractured and two ribs bent in. Annie's screams resulted in an alarm being turned in at police headquarters at 7 o'clock and when Patrolman Tim Shrader arrived, after a hurry run in the patrol wagon, Tucker was still beating Annie. Knocking in the door Patrolman Shrader arrested Tucker and took him to police headquarters. He was locked up.

GERRYMANDER OF EAST KENTUCKY

ISSUE BEFORE SUPREME COURT OF UNITED STATES—THREE DISTRICTS.

Washington, Sept. 19.—With Caleb Powers running for congress in the Eleventh congressional district of Kentucky and the formation of that district made an issue before the supreme court of the United States to determine a state's power to "gerrymander" its territory, that mountainous region is to be a political center this fall.

The political complexion of the two or more Kentucky congressmen is said to depend upon the outcome of the case.

The Kentucky Republicans claim by various acts, the Democratic legislature of that state has added Republican counties to the Republican stronghold, the Eleventh district thus making the adjoining Third and Eighth Democratic. In 1908 the Republicans elected their candidate for congress in the Eleventh by 21,000 majority, while the Democrats carried the Third by 476 and the Eighth by 1,676.

When the case was brought before the courts of Kentucky the judges held that the state courts were not clothed with any power to question the discretion exercised by the legislature in districting the state for congressional purposes.

The case was brought to the supreme court on the claim that the Kentucky statutes were invalid because in conflict with congressional enactments providing that the districts should be composed of "contiguous and compact" territory. Such enactments have been passed by the last 30 years.

Packers' Case Continued

Chicago, Sept. 19.—The judge today granted a continuance in the case of Armour & company, charged with contempt, in connection with the burning of records desired by the grand jury, which indicted the packers. The case was set for October 25. As a result of additional evidence heard today, indictments are expected against a New York dressed beef official and another against an official of the National Packing company.

HARA-KIRI MEANS OF DEATH TAKEN BY JOE CHAUDET

Prominent Livingston Coun-

Charge Pending Against Him
at Smithland.

RELIEVED TO BE DERANGED.

While apparently mentally unbalanced, Joe Chaudet, 50 years old, of Grand Rivers, Saturday afternoon slashed his abdomen with a small pocket knife so severely that he died Sunday morning at 3:30 o'clock at Riverside hospital. Chaudet was at the home of his brother-in-law, L. P. Holland, who resides two miles from the city on the Blandville road. When discovered he was in a small room stabbing the knife into himself and put up a manful fight when disarmed.

Chaudet is a prosperous farmer of Livingston county, and was owner of a farm of 500 acres. He left his home Thursday and came to Paducah, but his whereabouts are unaccounted for until he arrived at the home of Mr. Holland Saturday morning. He appeared unusually despondent. He went to a small room used by a servant, and it was there in the afternoon he was found using the knife. After he was found the knife was taken away from him and physicians were called. The knife blade had punctured the intestines in many places and his case was regarded as hopeless. He was removed to Riverside hospital in the ambulance of Mattill, Effinger & Roth in an effort to save his life.

His body was shipped to his home near Grand Rivers yesterday afternoon at 3:40 o'clock and the funeral took place this afternoon with burial in the Chaudet cemetery. He is survived by a wife and four children, and one brother, who resides in California. Chaudet married Miss Pertie Holland. Acting Coroner C. W. Emery held an inquest yesterday and the verdict was that he came to his death as a result of wounds inflicted by his own hands. Evidence was introduced that Chaudet was at one time in an asylum.

As a result of an alleged insult to Mrs. Little Satterfield, of Livingston county, several weeks ago a damage suit was pending and brooding over this is held by some as his reason for committing suicide. According to the allegations in the petition, Chaudet found Mrs. Satterfield, who is 17 years old, at her home alone. It is alleged that he insulted Mrs. Satterfield, who ran to her husband. Satterfield sought revenge with a weapon, but Chaudet was much the larger man and gave Satterfield a whipping. Later Satterfield secured the drop on Chaudet with a gun and made threats. As a result both men left the county. Mrs. Satterfield had prepared suit through her attorney, Colonel Landrum, of Smithland.

Atlantic City, Sept. 19.—With leaders of the Confederacy cheering as heartily as those who led the northern army, and with Commander in Chief Van Sant's own band playing Dixie, the forty-fourth encampment of the G. Paducah's chances for second place were dimmed slightly yesterday afternoon when Hopkinsville took the first game of the final series by a score of 1 to 0. The victory of the Hoptown lads was due to their pinch hitting and the excellent twirling of Fay, Paducah lost several opportunities to win the game on account of the failure to connect with the little southpaw safely.

Only one scratch hit was secured off the delivery of Fay, who is employed at the asylum, and pitches for the team occasionally. Mr. Fay is well acquainted with the fools, and before starting to Paducah evidently packed a few foolers in his grip. Anyhow when a hit was needed the Indians never secured it. From the start it looked like Paducah would win as they found the puzzlers of Fay, but always knocked them to somebody. Opposed to Fay was Woodring, who pitched good ball, and escaped from several bad holes, except in the sixth inning, when he lost his own game.

It was the last game of the season on the home diamond, and a large and enthusiastic bunch of fans attended the game. Until the sixth inning they were jolly, but after the Hopkinsville team scored it was realized that Paducah would not stand a chance unless Fay exploded, and he never did.

There were several feature catches. Warden carried off the biggest share of the glory by a splendid running catch in deep left field off the bat of Zeke Taylor. The big boy slammed the sphere nearly to the fence, but the little felder made a grand run and nabbed the ball with one hand. He could not throw in to the diamond in time to prevent Fay from scoring but he was warmly applauded. In the eighth inning he robbed the big fellow of another hit by knocking a splendid catch.

Murray robbed Cox of a hit in the second inning by stabbing a line drive. He started not to jump for the ball, but made the leap just in time and snatched it with one hand. In the fourth inning Carroll lifted one over the right field fence. The ball was foul by just a few feet.

In the first two innings neither team had an opportunity to score, but in the third Woodring reached third, but died there. After Payne had gone out, Woodring was given a pass. Warden followed with the only scratch hit of the day for Paducah, when he hit a slow grounder to H. Overton, and beat it out. Varnadore made a neat sacrifice, and Woody went to third, but Anderson flew out to H. Overton, and the chance was gone. In the fifth it started off like a winner for Paducah, but a fast double play caught two men. After Cox fouled out to Brown, Payne walked. Woodring knocked a fly to Crain who threw to Brown and retired Payne at first before he could return to the bag.

In the sixth Paducah had her best opportunity to score when the Hoppers made two errors. Warden was first up and was safe at first when Brown dropped and threw from Overton. Varnadore was safe when he hunted, and Murray, who covered first, dropped the throw. Again a fast double play ruined the chance of Paducah. Anderson tried to hunt, but tapped a light line drive right into the hands of Fay, who passed it to Brown in time to catch Varnadore off the sack. After that Paducah never threatened to score.

In the sixth for Hopkinsville, the Hoppers took advantage of everything. Fay was first up and Woodring hit him on the shank with the ball. Murray attempted a sacrifice, and Woodring fell when he tried to pick up the bunt. As a result two were safe on the sacks with nobody out, while Fay went to third base. Taylor followed with a long drive to left field and Warden captured it with his grand stand catch, but Fay scored the only run of the game on the throw in. Lyons made a hit, but was caught trying to pilfer second. After that Hopkinsville was not dangerous, but the game was won.

Saturday's Game.

Three straight from Harrisburg were taken when the Indians defeated Harrisburg, 2 to 0. The victory was due to the great twirling of Jesse Gwin and the pinch hitting of the Indians. Dummy Payne was especially fortunate, as he secured two bingles. Hastings was on the slab for the visitors and his slow ones were touched up for two runs and eight hits. Harrisburg secured but three bingles off the delivery of Gwin. The first score was registered by Payne in the third inning when Payne, Warden and Varnadore drove out singles. The second tally was scored in the fourth. Hart doubled but was caught at the plate trying to score on a single by Overton. Overton stole second and scored on a single by Cox. Umpire Kelsker was off in his decisions and was bad enough against Paducah, but gave the visitors the worst decisions.

A Farce.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Sept. 19.—Clarksville made Saturday's game a farce because President Gosnell removed Umpire Philman. Hoptown won by a score of 12 to 3. Yon started the game for Hopkinsville, but was hit hard and retired in favor of Guy Johnson.

Leaders Keep Upward.

McLeansboro, Ill., Sept. 19.—The "come back" quality of the champions was demonstrated Saturday when Carl Johnson was hit out of the box in the ninth inning. With the score 5 to 3 in favor of the Alices, Kraft stepped to the pan and lifted one over the fence for a home run. Two men were on the bags, and the Aces clinched the game.

Dope.

The two Overton brothers were much in the game yesterday. Frank Overton, catcher for Paducah, caught every runner trying to steal a base. Herman Overton, shortstop for the Hoppers, put up a good game. He is not as fast a felder as Anderson, but has a stronger whip in throwing the ball to first.

Lee Hare will work today for Hopkinsville, while Crain probably will oppose him.

The B. B. Hooks and the Indians will play a benefit game for the players next Sunday at the park.

Little Yon, who has always been a complete puzzle to the other teams, probably will take a fling at the Indians one of the two remaining games. He wants to try and down the Paducah team for once.

Little Warden made a hit with the fans yesterday by his running catches. Fay, from the bug house, certainly made the Indians look foolish. They hit his curves fairly well, but never safely. He worked hard the first part of the game, and it was predicted that he would blow up, but it never happened.

Harrisburg is bent on finishing second, and started in to do it yesterday by defeating Vincennes. A special train of rooters was run from Harrisburg.

The absence of Block was felt in the game yesterday. With Block in the batting line, a hit would have meant victory.

Vincennes will remain champion of the first part of the season, and McLeansboro champions of the last part of the Kitty season. At the conference last week it was decided to play a post season series between the two teams to determine the pennant winners. The Vincennes Capital says: "There will be no championship series played between the Vincennes and McLeansboro teams, this decision having been reached yesterday at McLeansboro in a conference between the owners and players of the clubs. Failure to see enough money in sight to make the series a paying one was the principal cause for the decision. The failure to be able to secure the Hopkinsville and Evansville parks on the dates wanted also figured in the calling off of the series. After the owners of the two teams had been unable to figure the series paying expenses the players were called into the conference and asked if they wanted to take chances of financial loss and play the series. After giving the matter consideration they reached the same conclusion as the owners and it was then announced the series would not be played."

Pat Was Wild.

Pat Runyan, of Kitty league fame, was wild yesterday and threw away the game for the B. B. Hooks when they clashed with a picked team at Metropolis. Patrick worked well up to the fourth inning when he lost control he ever had. He started off the fourth by walking two men and followed by hitting two more, forcing one run. The Illinois bunch found his curves and before the third out was registered they had sent four men over the pnn, He was rapped freely from then on, the Illinoisans winning by a score of 9 to 6.

The Hooks led off by registering a score in the first, two in the second and one in the third. In the seventh when there were two men on bases Captain Williams rapped a safe two-bagger to left, scoring two runners. The locals were unable to score after that. Braile, an old Kitty leaguer, did good work behind the bat for the Hooks.

Sox Take All Three.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 19.—Chicago made it three straight from Boston in a game featured by Walsh's pitching and a triple play. A triple by Parent and a home run by Gandil netted Chicago four runs in the fourth. The triple play was staged in the second. Stahl singled, Lewis beat an infield hit and Portelli led to Parent. Parent tossed the ball to Zelder, doubling Stahl off second. The third out came when Zelder threw to Gandil, retiring Lewis at first.

INTERNATIONAL PRISON CONGRESS BEGINS TOUR OF THIS COUNTRY

Eminent Sociologist and Prison Reformers Meet at Washington to Discuss Problems.

Last evening at 8:35 there left the city station at Jersey City, N. J., the special train, one of the most important and most interesting parties that this country has ever seen. The train itself, a Pullman equipment with baggage car, observation coach, belongs for the time being to the United States. On board will be over one hundred men and women from foreign parts, representatives of nearly 50 civilized nations of the world. These distinguished travelers are all guests of the United States. Uncle Sam has invited them to travel free of charge through 2,000 miles of our eastern and central states. Sitting in the same or adjoining sections will be delegates from China, Japan, Russia, from New Zealand, Porto Rico, Argentina, Liberia, France. In short, from almost a half-hundred nations. Uncle Sam is taking them around the country to show them his best prisons; taking them to Elmira reformatory, to Auburn, New York; to the Ohio State Reformatory at Jeffersonville; to Chicago, to Indianapolis, and incidentally to Niagara Falls for a change. These hundred foreigners, and the 50 Americans who are traveling with them as a corps of national guides, are representatives from the world over now in this country, to attend the coming session of the International Prison congress at Washington. American governors, mayors, chambers of commerce have showered invitations galore upon this body of visitors to our shores. Two weeks from today, at Washington, the president of the United States will address them at the opening meeting of the congress, the first of its kind ever held in the United States. And—as usual, when the United States takes hold, it manages to have the biggest yet of its kind. This crime congress is peculiar. It is not massive in the number of its attendants, although there will probably be a thousand visitors daily at the sessions between October 2d and eighth in Washington. This is a congress of representatives. It corresponds in a way to our house of representatives, in that a very few persons represent a whole state, or in this case, a nation. For instance, the 100 delegates to this international congress represent a billion and a half of civilized people. The delegates are not all Christians; the followers of the Nazarene will discuss the most modern problems of the treatment of the criminal with the follower of Mohammed, while the student of Confucius will debate with the adherent of the Greek Catholic church as to the value of the indeterminate sentence and parole. In short, this is a world congress to study crime, and to consider means for its reduction. Crime is not confined to the United States. Only a few weeks ago, one of the most remarkable examples of the international nature of crime was seen when two great continents followed breathlessly the wireless chase of an English fugitive from justice across the Atlantic. The problems of crime are very similar in many countries. America learns from Europe, and Europe from the United States. Many of the European prisons are constructed on plans worked out first in the Eastern Penitentiary at Philadelphia in the early part of the nineteenth century. Our American reformatory system was borrowed from the English and Irish system of treating prisoners in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Indeed, this great prison congress, which now has become the greatest deliberative body of the world in the study of crime problems, was founded by an American, and he a New Yorker, the secretary of the New York Prison Association, Dr. E. C. Winsor. He it was who in 1871 suggested to the United States government that the problems of crime had become international, and that it would be well if civilized nations would get together to compare notes. Crime was costing increasingly enormous sums in this country. And so, in 1871, the United States commissioned Dr. Winsor to travel through Europe and sound European nations as to their interest in the proposed international crime congress. Favorable responses were received on all sides, and in 1872 the first international prison congress was called at London, an English-speaking capital, the United States being altogether too far off. Even at that first congress the United States took an important part, as in successive congresses. In some ways, the United States has been the most radical of the many nations participating in the international prison congress. This country has not philosophized by say means so much as many European countries about the nature of crime, the make-up of the criminal, and the subtleties of criminal law. Rather has the American people as in so many other ways, also in prison matters gone ahead and experimented, learning when possible by its mistakes and profiting by its successes. For instance, only four years after the first congress, in 1876, the first reformatory for adults in any country was established at Elmira, New York. Today, the Elmira Reformatory, the "college on the hill," as it is called, is famous throughout the world as an example of the American reformatory method of dealing with crime. The inmate in Elmira has to make his way out of the institution, not by escaping over the walls, but by winning his way by industry, by department and by scholarship. He is not committed to the reformatory for a definite period, but on an indeterminate sentence. He may stay there, if he does not win good marks, for the entire period that he might have been sentenced to the reformatory, had the court pronounced a definite sentence. So the inmate is stimulated to reform, at least while within prison walls. The foreign delegates are coming to this congress in greater numbers than to any previous congresses, for America is not only in general a land of marvels, but it has done many "advanced" things in the treatment of criminals that have not as yet been wholly accepted as sound on the other side of the water. For instance, it is very much a question with Europeans to what extent the indeterminate sentence should be used. The indeterminate sentence is the sentence applied to Elmira men. Europeans are more accustomed to the conditional liberation of prisoners, a system by which the prisoner shortens his time of imprisonment by good behavior, and is then discharged and is no longer under the supervision of the law, whereas the indeterminate sentence is followed up in most American states by a system of parole, by which the released prisoner is still under the supervision of a parole officer, to which he must report for a number of months and sometimes even for several years. Our children's courts are coming in for a good deal of attention at the hands of the foreign visitors. The treatment of children is undergoing a radical change, both in this country and abroad. In most states of the Union a child under a certain age is not now considered to be a criminal. In New York state, no child under 16 can be tried for a crime, unless it be murder, but only for juvenile delinquency. Judge Lindsay's name, and the names of many others who have developed the children's courts in this country, are well known abroad. The United States is also particularly interesting to foreign guests because we have experimented so much with probation work for children and for adults. Probation means the suspension of sentence after conviction, thus making it possible for a person convicted of a crime not to be sent to prison, but to be restored to freedom, being placed however in charge of a probation officer to which the person on probation has to report generally once a week for a long period. In this way fines may be paid off, and a man who has perhaps been arrested for a small crime is not obliged to lose his job, but may continue to support his family during the months that his probation lasts. On the other hand, the prison administrators and the sociologists of the United States recognize that European penologists and criminologists have done an immense amount of valuable studying of crime problems and of criminal law. The congress brings to this country some of the most illustrious men of the nations they represent. Crime costs the people of the United States probably a billion dollars a year, directly and indirectly. It takes a heavy toll of human lives, not so much in the number of persons who are murdered but in the families that are broken up, in the degenerates that are bred by crime, in the populations of our prisons, many of whom are physically weakened by long terms of imprisonment, and in general by the fact that crime drives its devotees into bad, immoral and unhealthy conditions of life that in the end react upon the body and frequently bring on disease and death. There are about one hundred thousand prisoners in our American prisons today. About a third of them are discharged each year, and another third take their places. A problem that costs the country a billion dollars a year is a mighty serious problem. It is as serious as the question of tuberculosis, or of poverty itself, with which it is closely connected. What can be done to reduce the amount of crime, and to make fewer criminals? That's the question. The principal questions to be discussed by the congress are the following:

Is the indeterminate sentence feasible?
What shall be the procedure regarding penal sentences pronounced by courts of foreign lands, when the prisoner is again in his own country?
Is a crime a more serious one when a group commits it than when a single person commits it?
What are the essential principles of a modern reformatory system?
What improvement can be made in systems of parole or conditional liberation?
What are the best means of working prisoners in small prisons?
What are the effects of probation?
How shall we deal best with the tramp and the vagrant?
What can be done to assist prisoners' families?
How can we deal best with inebriety?
Should children be treated as criminals?
What can be done about idle and vagrant children in large cities?

Daily Thought.

The rarest feeling that ever lights a human face is the contentment of a loving soul.—Beecher.

The Publishers' Auxiliary carries an ad. this week for an "All around married printer."

Don't be too hard on the man, who continually thinks of himself. It is an inherited instinct.

A man's philosophy of life becomes his besetting vanity, after time has laid its ruthless hand on all other vanities.

If a man doesn't properly employ the bit of eternity allotted to him in this sphere, what do you suppose a God, who abhors waste, will do with him for the remainder of it?

ROOSEVELT ON TAFT.
 In his speech at Syracuse Saturday Theodore Roosevelt said:

"The president of the United States, Mr. Taft, has served his country honorably and uprightly in many positions—as judge, as governor of the Philippines, as secretary of war and now as president—for to him and the congress netting with him we owe the creation of a tariff commission, the adoption of maximum and minimum tariff law treaties with foreign powers, the proper treatment of the Philippines under the tariff, the increase in the efficiency of the interstate commerce law, the beginning of a national legislative program providing for the exercise of the taxing power in connection with corporations doing an interstate business, a postal savings bank bill, the constitution of a commission to report a remedy for over capitalization in connection with the issue of stocks and bonds."

MUST THE "HUG WALTZ" GO?

Some particular people have classified "The Merry Widow" as a bit sensuous, and the art dances of Ruth St. Denis et al, as just a trifle risqué; but when a leading dancing master of New York called the popular ballroom pastime of conventional society the "hug waltz" and prophesied its speedy relegation to the limbo of all awkward, vulgar performances, we get a new view of the situation; and, maybe, we shall have "The Merry Widow" yet to thank for recalling to our minds that once upon a time the dance was the acme of grace; and that bending and swaying to the music as well as the time of music may be just as modest and "one, two, three-ing" around a waltz floor with a man's arm around a woman's waist. It is said that Paris society is rushing to the dancing master to learn the "poetry of music," but little children are learning the art of it, as they did when the minuet was in vogue; and dancing of ethical value, instead of the "hug waltz," condemned of all physiologists, will come to stay. Then, future generations will regard us, not as a barbaric dance—nothing so artistic as that—but the boisterous romp of the crudest materialistic age.

MAKING UP THE ISSUES.

Results of the present congressional elections will have a permanent bearing on party success at the next national contest, and leaders may be expected to shape the conduct of their forces in the next congress to that end.

President Taft will take up the remainder of his program, which was postponed at the last session in order to concentrate efforts on the more urgent measures, and he will recommend the addition to the employers' liability law of a system of fixed compensations for injuries and death, obviating the necessity of litigation and its consequent evils and waste; federal incorporation of concerns doing interstate commerce business; perhaps, a permanent tariff board, amendment to the injunction law, and other legislation pledged in the platform on which he was elected. If he has an adverse majority to cope with in the lower house, these measures, not only will be jeopardized, but the opposition party will be making a record, which will affect its success at the next national election.

It may be accepted as settled now, that the Republican party is progressive in its policies. The president in advocating an employers' liability amendment, federal incorporation of interstate commerce concerns; opening of corporation books, the corporation tax, the extension of federal regulation of railroads, leasing of public fuel lands and water power sites, systematic improvement of water ways, the postal savings bank, and the revision of the tariff by a commission, has aligned himself on the progressive side. Theodore Roosevelt has demonstrated that those reactionary leaders, whom he defeated at the last national convention, will stay hooked. But while the president is progressive, he is also conservative, disinclined to follow unstable zealots of reform, and considerate of property rights. He will not disturb the confidence of the business and industrial world.

His attitude of conservative progressiveness, as long as Roosevelt, idol of the insurgent element remains friendly, will make it difficult for the opposition to assail him successfully from any quarter. A presidential campaign is always more sober than the disconnected skirmishing, which marks this year. Serious weighing of the consequences will take the place of unrestrained expression of feeling. The "silent vote" is not noticeably present this year.

There are two extremes between which the minority national party has vacillated the last several national campaigns. There are huge interests, whose operations are affected by federal incorporation, federal regulation and imposed publicity. They would be willing to handsomely finance any national campaign, the success of which would assure them a voice in reversing the policy and tendencies of the present administration. State rights would make a fine party cry, behind which to hide their purposes, while they decry against the usurpation of authority by the United States government.

The other extreme offers the radical theories, which threaten the security of property rights in this country. These radicals have been pleased with the general tone of Roosevelt's speeches; but they will be disappointed with the limitation he puts upon the elevation of man above property; and the president's warning indicates that he has no sympathy with destructionist theories. These men, taking advantage of the conservatism of the president and the coldness of Roosevelt, might well sway the opposition into the madness, which disrupted it in 1896.

Either position assumed by the opposition is bound to drive to the support of the administration the most progressive and conservative element of the country. Whether the opposition takes the form of reactionary proposals or the contrasting extreme of radical antagonism to the security of fundamental principles underlying property rights, it will alienate the other element. There seems to be no common ground on which these two extremes can meet to encompass the defeat of the administration. Before the fight the chorus of opposition makes a big sound, whose very discord adds to the menace of it; but no opposition will ever swing permanently into power on the faults of the administration. It must win on its own merits, offering not merely denunciation of existing policies, but a substitute for them. Here difficulty appears, for when the time comes to present the substitute the discordant opposition will fall out about ways and means.

STATE PRESS.

It's Getting Out on Charlie.

Justice Charles Emery, of Paducah, is getting to be one of the big politicians of the Purchase.—Mayfield Messenger.

Recalling Former Declaration.

"A long time ago," the Times declared that there was not a living candidate for governor of United States senator in Kentucky who would dare oppose a state primary for either office. It makes that assertion again, now.—Glasgow Times.

The Saloons Were Closed, Jim.

It will be only a short time until we will vote as many votes in a city Democratic primary election as did the city of Paducah the other day. We are growing mighty fast one way and Paducah mighty fast the other way. The number of votes cast in the primary "barely" outnumbered the officials and candidates.—Calvert City Cor., of Mayfield Messenger.

A State Primary Likely.

The News was the first paper to tip Judge Abbie Young as chairman of the Democratic campaign committee. The News now gives the tip that the state executive committee is almost certain to call some time next spring a primary election in Kentucky to nominate a candidate for governor and the other officers which compose the ticket. With five candidates for the gubernatorial nomination there is great danger that a state convention would develop into another Music Hall affair and if so that party defeat would certainly follow. It is true that a good many objections are made against the state primary, even when they are worse, they are not as bad as the Music Hall convention in 1899 for the man who gets the most votes as recorded is generally the choice of the party. Personally the News would rather see an old-time convention, but old times do not come back, and as everything in politics seem to get worse instead of better, a state convention next year would likely be about the worst ever.—Elizabethtown News.

TAFT'S VACATION COMES TO END

ACCUMULATED BUSINESS OF TWO MONTHS.

Will Deliver Prepared Speech in New York Before League of Republican Clubs.

QUITS BEVERLY ON OCT. 10.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 19.—President Taft's vacation came to an end today. At midnight he will board a train for Cincinnati, going by way of New Haven, where he will attend a meeting of the Yale corporation. Tuesday will find him in Cincinnati where he will deliver an address at the opening of a dam that will outline his future policy with regard to river and harbor improvements.

The remainder of his stay in Cincinnati will be given up to the dispatch of private business.

Saturday and Sunday next the president will reach Washington, where accumulated business of two months awaits his attention. The judicial appointments are to be decided, the Hallinger-Pinchot affair adjusted and other matters of almost equal importance demand attention.

The cabinet will be in session practically four days, during which time all the members of the official family, save Secretary Dickinson, who is in the far east, will be guests of the president at the white house.

Leaving Washington on Oct. 1, the president will address the convention of the National League of Republican Clubs that night in New York. This speech is being carefully prepared by the president.

It will be his political utterance during the campaign, and he is being urged to strike the same definite cord in this utterance that he did in the conservative speech at St. Paul.

He will return to Beverly on October 2, but nothing but work is ahead of him here. The message is to be prepared, plans for economy completed, the estimates gone over, the work of the tariff board to review.

The president will bid adieu to Beverly on Oct. 16 and go direct to Washington, where, unless he decides upon the Panama trip, he will remain throughout the winter.

smokestacks of both engines after the wreck were within a foot or two of each other, but the engines were at right angles to each other. There were several lumber cars in the wreck and lumber was scattered in all directions. The wrecking train went to work at 7 o'clock and at 4:30 o'clock yesterday the track was cleared. Both locomotives were brought to Cairo and placed in the M. & O. freight yards at the foot of Eighth street. All trains on the M. & O. during the day were detoured over the Illinois Central between Cairo and Murphysboro.

Operator Arrested.

Operator Charles E. Clark is in it bad. He was arrested yesterday afternoon by Constable Wilson, of Tamm, and brought to Cairo and placed in the county jail. At the first knowledge of the disaster Coroner McManus and Dr. W. F. Grinstead went to the scene of the wreck. The dead men were ordered sent to Cairo. The only man injured, Engineer Hurdorf, was ordered sent to St. Mary's Infirmary.

When Dr. McManus arrived at Beech Ridge he found the operator, Clark, still under the influence of liquor and not able to give any statement that would vindicate himself. He was ordered placed under arrest by the coroner.

Prisoner's Story.

Clark was seen in jail by a Bulletin reporter. He stated that he lived in Cairo with two sisters, Mrs. Alvey and Mrs. Reynolds, at 3215 Park avenue; that he was 36 years old and had been a telegraph operator for 15 years, having been employed at various times by the I. C., Big Four, M. & O. and other roads. His

LORIMER SCANDAL

COMMITTEE WILL BEGIN ITS WORK ON TUESDAY.

Chicago Will Be Scene of First Day's Investigation of Election of William Lorimer.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Investigation of the bribery scandal attending the election of William Lorimer to the United States senate will be begun in Chicago Tuesday by the special sub-committee of the senate committee on privileges and elections, appointed for the purpose last June.

No meeting has been held yet and the plan of procedure is still to be determined. Whether public hearings will be held as in the Hallinger-Pinchot investigation, is uncertain, but the impression prevails that the senators who will conduct the probe are not anxious to produce any more sensations than necessary.

Senator Julius Caesar Burrows, of Michigan, standpat who recently was defeated in his fight for re-nomination, is chairman of the committee. Other members are Senators Dillingham, of Vermont, Fugate, of South Dakota, and Heyburn, of Idaho, Republicans, and Senators James B. Frazier, of Tennessee, Payton, of Kentucky, and Johnston, of Alabama, Democrats.

Without exception the members of the committee are known for their firmness and strictness of views.

In all probability the committee will remain in Chicago not more than three or four days. It is possible that one day's session will be held in Springfield and the rest of the time the deliberations will be conducted in Washington.

A conclusion by the committee that foundation existed for the charge that Lorimer's seat was bought would force the senate to oust the Illinois senator. It is planned to complete the investigation in time for the committee to make its report when congress convenes in December.

Evidence gathered by State Attorney Wayne in the Lee O'Neil Browne case, will be presented to the committee and it is possible that some of the legislators who have figured prominently in the scandal may be called to testify. Gov. Deneen and Senator Lorimer also may be called as witnesses.

No delay was occasioned and yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock the ceremony was pronounced by the Rev. Proprietary Medicine.
Frauds Should Be Exposed

There have been plenty of them, no doubt, and they have been vigorously condemned—no vigorously that every sort of medicine the formula of which is privately owned is condemned and pronounced "unethical" by the Medical Profession.
Eckman's Alternative deserves attention, not because it is a "proprietary" but because it really has cured many cases of Tuberculosis. If it is a fraud it needs exposing badly, because a number of cured consumptives will need to find some other reason for being well.
Liberty Clay said he would rather be right than be President. Is it not better for Eckman's Alternative to make cures than to be ethical?
Weldon, Ill., Feb. 3, 1905.
In July, 1904, my physician sent me to Texas, from there to Colorado. I became worse and was sent home to die. I heard of Eckman's Alternative, began treatment, and was cured. I earnestly recommend Eckman's wonderful cure for Consumption.
(Signed affidavit) Arthur Webb.

RACING BALLOONS AT INDIANAPOLIS

NEARLY ALL TRAVEL NORTH-EAST FROM INDIANAPOLIS.

Topeka and Drifter Encounter Storms at High Altitude and Are Forced to Descend.

TRAVEL CLOSE TOGETHER

Pittsburgh, Sept. 19.—At least three of the thirteen balloons which ascended from Indianapolis between 5 and 6 o'clock passed over the environs of Pittsburgh were reported as still pursuing a course east by north at a rate from 10 to 12 miles an hour. In the 24 hours since the ascensions the aeronauts have covered about 100 miles.

In addition to these three definitely sighted dozens of conflicting reports came in, one from Wheeling, W. Va., reading:

"One near Martin's Ferry, O., four over Wellsburg, Va., two at Pollanshoe and one near Moundsville at noon."

The only landing reported was from Washington, Pa., this evening. The Topeka had come down at 3 o'clock this afternoon, seven miles south of Washington, owing to a shower. Pilot R. H. Cole and his aid, F. M. Jacobs, of Topeka, Kas., reported that most of the night they had traveled so closely to the others of the big aeronautical party that they could talk from basket to basket. The Topeka was entered in the free-for-all event.

Three States Balloon Hunting.

Eastern Ohio, West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania were all balloon hunting today. All afternoon local newspaper offices were advised from outlying districts that three balloons, sailing high and separated by about ten-minute intervals had been sighted. The first report here came from Washington, Pa. The balloons had been sighted there at 1 o'clock and the third had passed at 1:50 p. m. There were all over 1,000 feet high, but Sheriff John Murphy, who reported their passage, said he distinguished the forms of two men in two of the baskets, and three men in the car of the third balloon.

At Canonsburg, just northwest of Washington, the balloons were sighted by hundreds of people, and one man got so excited he turned in a fire alarm. Over the junction of the Monongahela and Youghiogheny rivers the aeronauts evidently encountered trouble with the lower air currents and avoided them by mounting to the height of nearly a mile. At this altitude they sailed up the Monongahela valley, over the fire and smoke of numerous steel mills.

Follow the Allegheny.

Between 2 and 3 o'clock the balloons were sighted from the southern suburbs of Pittsburgh at McKeesport, Elizabeth, Parkersburg and Mount Oliver. At that time one of the balloons had a 20 minutes lead on the other two and the latter were so close together that it seemed as if they would bump. At the extreme height it was impossible to identify the balloons, and as dusk closed in they proceeded northwesterly along the course of the Allegheny river.

During the afternoon showers threatened several times, and at 6 o'clock some rain fell here, but at that hour no report had been received.

There are rumors that Cyrus had discovered some recent indications of his wife and it is presumed this was the real cause of the tragedy.

During the entire stay of the Chinese dignitaries in New York, Mr. Schwab was notably assiduous in his attentions and accompanied Prince Tsai Tao to the steamship to bid him farewell on his departure for Europe. Nothing further was heard of the matter until today, when the dispatches from San Francisco referred to were received.

At the offices of the Bethlehem Steel company here it was admitted that Mr. Schwab is now on his way to San Francisco, but further than that no definite information was obtained except that he was going there by appointment to meet Prince Tsai Hsun. Mr. Schwab's secretary, Mr. Ward, would neither affirm nor deny the statements in the San Francisco dispatches.

We Can Build Ships.

"It is a matter which no one can discuss, save Mr. Schwab," he said. Upon Prince Tsai Hsun's return to Peking a few weeks ago from Europe by way of the Siberian railway he met the prince and Lord Li, who reported to him the results of their investigations in the United States in the matter of warship building. The prince's present visit to San Francisco to meet Mr. Schwab is the result of the representation made to him by the other two Chinese officials, it is said.

KILLS WIFE

MURDER AND SUICIDE IN NASHVILLE ROOMING HOUSE.

Despondency and Jealousy Assigned as a Cause for the Hash Deed of John M. Cyrus.

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 19.—Prompted by jealousy and despondency, John M. Cyrus, aged 26, a farmer living near Antioch, Tenn., shot and killed his wife, Susie, and turning the weapon upon himself, fired a shot which caused his death ten minutes later, in a rooming house in this city. The woman was shot through the heart and brain, immediately after the shots were heard an alarm was given and a policeman rushed into the house. He kicked in the door of the room which Cyrus and his wife had occupied since last Thursday, and there stretched across the bed lay Cyrus dying with the blood spurting from the breast of his wife, who lay on the bed beside him. The woman had thrown one limb over the body of her prostrate husband and her hands clasped his, which held the pistol clutched close to his body. Cyrus' wound was in the temple.

A day or so ago Cyrus was heard to say no one would ever see him again. He had something over $100 at the time, but when the room was searched this morning only 3 cents was found.

There are rumors that Cyrus had discovered some recent indications of his wife and it is presumed this was the real cause of the tragedy.

During the entire stay of the Chinese dignitaries in New York, Mr. Schwab was notably assiduous in his attentions and accompanied Prince Tsai Tao to the steamship to bid him farewell on his departure for Europe. TO BUILD NEW CHINESE NAVY

CHARLES M. SCHWAB GETS BEST OF STEEL TRUST.

Hundreds of Millions Involved in the Work—It Will Be a Most Modern Navy.

SMOOTH WORK FOR SCHWAB

New York, Sept. 19.—The ships and guns of China's new navy with which that mighty sleeping giant proposes to grapple with the civilized world are to be built in the United States.

For the profit to accrue from equipping the world's oldest and most powerful empire with Christendom's latest and most deadly instruments of death and destruction there has been keen competition for the last year between the United States Steel Trust and Charles M. Schwab.

It was announced in dispatches that Mr. Schwab is now on his way to San Francisco, where he is to meet Prince Hsun, uncle of the baby emperor of China, to close the contracts for construction. It appears, therefore, that Schwab has won another notable victory over the steel trust. Only a short time ago he outbid the big concern in contracts for building Dreadnaughts for the Argentine navy.

Prime Tsai Hsun is at the head of China's naval establishment. For a year he has been touring the world in a study of ship yards and steel construction. He has visited every center of Europe for information.

He Entertained Chinese.

The imperial prince is said to have the direction of the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars for modernizing the heavy empire's war equipment. He will be met by Mr. Schwab in San Francisco this week, and there it is announced the contracts will be signed for the construction of a great number of war ships of all types, together with more heavy and small guns that are to be mounted on them than ever before made at one time. The designs, it is further announced, were made by the Bethlehem Steel company.

This comes as a sequel to the lavish hospitality extended by Mr. Schwab last May to another Chinese imperial prince, Tsai Tao, and to Lord Li, son of Li Hsing Chang, upon the occasion of their visit to this city.

The extraordinary attention paid by Mr. Schwab to the distinguished visitors from China attracted much attention at the time. They were capped by a luncheon at the Schwab mansion in Riverside Drive. Included among the persons invited to meet his guests were Andrew Carnegie, Judge E. H. Gary, William E. Corey, Henry Phlip, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jacob H. Schiff, George W. Perkins, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., William G. McAdoo, Paul Morton and the officers of the Bethlehem Steel company.

Got in His Work.

The affair was styled "The Millionaire Luncheon." It was not generally known at the time that Schwab then was deftly laying plans to capture this enormous contract for the steel trust. It was given out that the principal subject discussed was the part financiers of the United States were to be permitted to take in the big loan China was about to negotiate for internal improvements, chiefly railroad building.

During the entire stay of the Chinese dignitaries in New York, Mr. Schwab was notably assiduous in his attentions and accompanied Prince Tsai Tao to the steamship to bid him farewell on his departure for Europe. Nothing further was heard of the matter until today, when the dispatches from San Francisco referred to were received.

At the offices of the Bethlehem Steel company here it was admitted that Mr. Schwab is now on his way to San Francisco, but further than that no definite information was obtained except that he was going there by appointment to meet Prince Tsai Hsun. Mr. Schwab's secretary, Mr. Ward, would neither affirm nor deny the statements in the San Francisco dispatches.

We Can Build Ships.

"It is a matter which no one can discuss, save Mr. Schwab," he said. Upon Prince Tsai Hsun's return to Peking a few weeks ago from Europe by way of the Siberian railway he met the prince and Lord Li, who reported to him the results of their investigations in the United States in the matter of warship building. The prince's present visit to San Francisco to meet Mr. Schwab is the result of the representation made to him by the other two Chinese officials, it is said.

BOOK III.

THE CRUCIAL MOMENTS.
CHAPTER XII.

Mrs. Haldane is surprised. The Haldane family usually partook of luncheon together. Breakfast was an irregular meal taken at different times by different members of the household, and dinner usually brought many engagements which widely separated them. A few days after the automobile ride, while the excitement over the proposed granting to the Gotham Freight Traction company of the New York Street Car company franchise was still at its height, Mr. and Mrs. Haldane and their daughter, after waiting sometime for the arrival of Livingston Haldane, sat down to luncheon without him.

The conversation turned, as it usually did, on the campaign. Haldane looked worried. Well he might be! The hold and decisive action of Gormly, his addressness in wrestling the pledge that he had done from the mayor, the fact that the city was now thoroughly aroused and as never before to the situation, were calculated to increase his anxiety, which had grown with the progress of the campaign. The brilliant stroke of Gormly when he offered ten million dollars for the franchise and thereafter compelled Warren to declare the granting of it to depend upon the election had greatly increased the probabilities of defeat.

There were indications also, which added to Haldane's troubles, that his own connection with the Gotham Freight Traction company would soon be known, and that there would be disclosed to New York at the same time the operation of that gigantic company, its ramifications, and the control it had of public utilities in every direction.

It was Eleanor who opened the conversation, after the luncheon had been served and the servants had withdrawn.

"Father," she said, "I have been thinking for some days now that I ought to tell you something that happened the other night."

"What night, Eleanor?"

"The night Mr. Gormly made his famous speech in the city hall square, and who is glad to see people do things."

"I presume," said Haldane, who had said little but had thought deeply, "that such a proposition, if definitely made, would be made to me."

"Well then, of course," said his wife, "you will give but one answer."

"And what would you suggest that should be?" asked Haldane.

"To show him the door."

"I hardly think," returned her husband, "that I should be guilty of that discourtesy."

"There is no use," interposed her daughter, "to discuss the matter any further; for he hasn't asked me, I haven't accepted him. I don't know whether he ever will ask me or not, and until he does why trouble about it?"

"Well, what does he mean then by telling you that he loves you? Loves!" sneered the older woman disdainfully.

"Yes," said her father, "it seems to me a rather remarkable course for a man to address a woman in that way, and yet not complete his proposition."

"He said that something was impending which made him feel that it was proper to tell me this now."

"Something impending?"

"Some sort of disclosure, I inferred," answered the girl, "that might affect him or possibly me."

Haldane started.

"Well," he said, "I do not quite agree with your mother. There is no insult in the honest affection of any honest man. But if he approaches you upon the subject, I wish that you would refer him to me."

"Father!"

"Heckman!" exclaimed the older woman, greatly surprised. "You don't mean—"

"Now, I don't mean anything, except just what I say," answered Haldane decisively. "It is proper that such a proposition should be made to me; and in short I very greatly desire to be allowed to discuss the matter, if it goes any further, with Mr. Gormly personally."

Haldane spoke sternly, and his wife at once subsided, as she invariably did when he assumed that mood. Eleanor, however, was not so easily silenced.

"Of course, in any event you would be consulted, father," she said firmly; "but so far as the disposition of my hand goes, that is a matter that concerns my heart, and it is one which, although I should be very glad of your counsel and your approval, I shall have to decide myself."

"Quite so, quite so," said Haldane. "I have no other idea."

At this moment, which threatened to grow more tense, Livingston Haldane entered the room. He was greatly perturbed and alarmed.

"Father," he said abruptly, "I want to see you alone for a moment or two please."

"What has happened?" began Haldane, rising.

"Why, Mr. Gormly— But I would rather see you alone."

"Has he made a proposition to you for your sister's hand?" questioned Mrs. Haldane.

"What!" exclaimed her son.

"Eleanor," explained his mother, "has just stated that Mr. Gormly took advantage of your kindness to him the other night, after that disgraceful episode in the city hall, to make love to her in the tonneau of the car."

"You don't say!" exclaimed the young man, apparently neither shocked nor surprised. "Well, he's a good one. What did you say to him, sis?"

"It is very unpleasant to me to have these matters discussed in this way," answered Eleanor, her face blushing.

"As I have explained to father and mother, Mr. Gormly did me the honor to say that he cared a great deal for me. He did not ask me to be his wife, although he expressed his intention of doing so. He said that certain things had made him anticipate his purpose and state his feelings toward me now without waiting, as he had expected to do, until the end of the election."

"What things?" asked young Haldane. "Things that concerned him, or—"

"I don't know what they are."

"Well, I think I do," returned the young man.

"What are they?" his sister asked him with great eagerness.

But young Haldane was not quite prepared to declare what things they were.

"On second thoughts," he said, evasively, "I don't know. At any rate I want to talk some matters over with father."

"Financial matters, my boy?"

"Political."

"Very well. If your mother and sister will excuse us, we will go into the library."

"Certainly," answered Mrs. Haldane, making virtue of necessity.

"If they concern me or my relation to Mr. Gormly," said Eleanor, "I should like to know them immediately."

"They concern us all," he answered.

"And, by the way," he added, "I was going to withhold it; but I might as well give it to you now. Here's a letter to you from Mr. Gormly. It, asked me to give it to you when I saw you. I was going to talk to father about this other matter before I gave it to you; but you can read it over while we are gone."

"What was it you wished to say to me, Livingston?" began the older man as they entered the library.

"Father," returned his son with bewildering abruptness, "I learned at headquarters today that you were the head and front of the Gotham Freight Traction company and all the rotten lot against whom we are fighting."

"From whom did you learn this?" asked the older man quietly.

"From Gormly himself."

"Does anybody else know it?"

"It isn't generally known, if that's what you mean. It hasn't got in the papers yet. The people who found it out, of course, told Gormly, and he came to me with it. He said that I had been one of his best and most useful helpers in this campaign; that as his fight was against the Gotham Freight Traction company, and in that respect against you, he supposed I would want to draw out of it, and he would give me an opportunity, so that I could leave honorably before the news became public."

"And suppose that I am—or—interested in the traction company?"

"To what extent are you interested?" asked the younger man.

"Well, that was not the question I asked you."

"But it is the question with me, father."

"I recognize no right that you have to put such questions to me."

"I may not have any right; but I am doing it just the same. I know and we all know just what the Gotham Freight Traction company is. We know that it is robbing the people. And for that reason I want to know how deeply you are interested in it."

"Go back to Gormly and find out!" thundered his father, intensely angered at the young man's scathing denunciation.

"No, sir, I'm going to find it out for you before I leave this room."

The situation was a terrible one for the older man. Under ordinary circumstances, he would not have greatly cared if his connection with the Gotham Freight Traction company and the administration had gradually leaked out; but to have it sprung as a trap, without warning, on the fastest as it were, and at this stage of the campaign, was ruinous. At his son's blunt announcement of his determination to know all about it, and there, he lost for the moment his nerve, his fine self control and he went suddenly white. The two men had been standing. The older sat down upon a chair by the desk and leaned his head upon his hands.

"Let me think," he said faintly at last.

"You don't have to think," went on the young man with unconcealed cruelty. "To say how deeply you are involved in the affairs of the Gotham Freight Traction company."

"As deeply as anybody can be," was the desperate admission.

"Good God!" exclaimed Livingston, surprised in spite of his forewarning. "You! It isn't possible. I saw the proofs with my own eyes, and yet I wouldn't believe that you would ally yourself with that gang of thieves and scoundrels."

"Somebody had to take that franchise and build that road," answered his father. "We are giving the people good service, and—"

"Don't make excuses," said the young man, brushing them away with a wave of his hand. "How on earth are we going to explain the facts? What will Eleanor think?"

"You have influence with Gormly," said the father. "Go to him. Tell him that I must see him and at once. Can you bring him here?"

"Well, he's watched like a hawk," said young Haldane. "Your dirty crowd has detectives on his trail all over New York. If he came up here, it would be reported in every paper in the city tonight and tomorrow morning."

"Never mind that. I must see him."

"Look here, father. I am not mixed up with the Gotham Freight Traction company and that gang that you're allied with, and I don't intend to be involved in any scheme you may undertake to get Gormly in trouble."

"I don't intend to make any trouble. I must see the man, and you must arrange it. Come, are you my son, or are you not?"

"I am your son all right," answered the younger man; "but I tell you frankly that I have cast in my lot with Gormly and this isn't going to make any difference. Perhaps we can save this off—or—"

"At any rate I must see Gormly, and you must help me. For God's sake, don't stand there arguing with me, but arrange in some way to bring Gormly and me together secretly and without delay!"

"Let me think a minute," said the younger man at last, impressed by his father's terrible insistence. "I have it. The car is at the door fortunately. I'll run down and tell Gormly you want to see him about this cursed business. I don't know whether I can persuade him to meet you or not; but I'll do my best. Then you go over to Louise Stewart's at once. She's true blue and won't betray you. Her mother is away, and she'll be alone except for the servants."

"Hurry then, and don't tell your sister or your mother anything of this," said Haldane as he rose to end the interview.

"No fear of that. I am not likely to proclaim it," answered his son shamefacedly.

News of Theatres

Black Patti Tonight.

The first regular theatrical attraction of the season is presented at the Kentucky theater tonight in the form of Black Patti's annual visit, with her troupe of dusky singers, dancers and vaudeville artists. She always brings with her the pick of the colored professionals, and the admirably trained and blended voices of the troupe attract many white people to the theater. Besides Black Patti herself with her remarkable voice, her principal support is "Jolly" John Larkina, a colored comedian of note. "A Trip to Africa" is the musical vehicle in which the company will be shown off. Lower floor reserved for white people.

Deep affection for a child underlies the theme of "The Awakening of Helena Richie," the play in which Margaret Anglin will be seen at the Kentucky Wednesday, October 5. Miss Anglin's advent in her play is of special interest to local playgoers from the fact that she has been absent for several seasons from the south and in the interim, her art has materially developed and her fame has become universal. The story of the new play is known to all readers and "The Awakening of Helena Richie" has had a tremendous sale, for it is the most popular of any of Margaret Deland's works. The adaptation has been made by Charlotte Thompson, a dramatic author of note.

Plans for the Kentucky theater were knocked topsy-turvy in the box office this morning, when the announcement came that Clara Lipman, in "The Marriage of a Star," was booked for Tuesday, October 4, the night before Miss Anglin's appearance in "The Awakening of Helena Richie." Aside from the fact that Miss Lipman has taken Chicago by storm after a success in New York with her French importation, and this is her first southern tour, interest is added in her Paducah appearance by the fact that she is the sister-in-law of Mr. Joseph L. Friedman, and the wife of Louis Mann, the comedian, remembered here as "The Man Who Stood Still."

AT THE STAR THEATRE.

Opening Monday afternoon for a three days' engagement, Jack and Marie St. Julian will give their famous novelty head dance. It is claimed for these two as the only performers who ever perfected a dance while doing an unsupported head stand and revolve. Those familiar with this class of acts will recognize what a wonderful stunt is in store for them.

Stevens and Stevens made the hit of the bill at Nashville last week in their great comedy singing and talking act. This pair of exceptionally clever people make them laugh right from the jump and what's more they keep the audience in a roar all the way through to the end.

The popular pictorial balladist, Frank Lusk, has got a new one to put over home plate and, as usual, he is sure to score.

Two reels of new motion pictures will also be a part of the entertainment. The admission will be: Adults 10 cents, children 5 cents.

The successful man doesn't boast of what he is going to do tomorrow, today.

SHEDDING OVER THE COTTON BELT

USUAL SEPTEMBER DETEIORATION REPORTED.

Nearly All the Bolls in the Lone Star State Have Reached Maturity—Conditions.

WATCHING THE FROST DATE.

Memphis, Sept. 19.—The cotton crop is coming to maturity in an irregular manner, says the Commercial Appeal. In all parts of the south, save the most southern cotton growing sections, there are fields which are thrifty and growing and need a late frost to permit of the maturity of a full yield. In all sections, also, there are fields which have apparently come to full growth and will make no more cotton. In such as these the bolls are opening rapidly. It appears that on the whole the past two weeks have brought the crop toward maturity more rapidly than the farmers had anticipated. As a result, there are some complaints of shedding in the valley and the Atlantic states. In the latter, however, the shedding does not appear to have been so great as is usual for the season.

It is estimated that fifty per cent of the fruit on the stalk in the northern districts is mature and cannot be hurt by frost. In Southern Texas, Southern Georgia and Louisiana estimates on the matured cotton run 80 to 100 per cent. In Oklahoma and Arkansas the crop appears later than elsewhere. Some of the Oklahoma reports say that early complaints of damage by the boll worm were overstated, although it is evident that the promise is not quite so brilliant as at one time indicated.

In general, a larger yield than last year is indicated in all states save Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina. In the two latter a late frost would add considerably to the yield.

It is shown that considerable benefit to the crop has accrued in Central and Middle Western Texas as a result of rains during the first week of September. The making of a top crop will depend, however, upon a late frost.

Farmers are generally marketing cotton freely.

Women Most Attractive After 30.

Some man has said—and many have echoed his sentiments—that the most attractive woman in the world is an unmarried, good-looking woman between 30 and 40—providing her spinsterhood has not soured her disposition. A woman at that age has usually acquired a certain poise, has kept her person expensively groomed and her wit sharpened. Cares of the household have not deterred her from keeping up to date in plays and books and music, and even though she may be a bread winner she is more than likely to have found time to acquire some accomplishments which will make her sought after; occasionally she even has that rare one of being a good listener—and every man will agree with me that that, of all feminine accomplishments, is quite the most charming. The man has never seen her with her hair screwed into "natural wavers," or pouring the coffee in a soiled dressing gown, but naturally sees only her best side. She, too, has another side—but what does it matter since only she herself knows it?

When a maid arrives at the age of twenty-five, from then until forty let her buckle on her strongest armor and take up her spear well sharpened for the fray. She will need them—for it is during that inclusive period that she is most dangerously attractive to men especially to married men.—Smart Set.

Bill Sterrett's How.

Bill Sterrett, who is the best-known newspaper editor in Texas, paid a visit to Washington a short time ago, and while he was there he got into trouble. It all came about because Bill is not particular with his dress, and in age and general bearing might be taken for a country hayseed.

He was standing on the back platform of a street car when two city youths got on and began to "josh" him for being a "Rube." He stood it for a few minutes and calmly puffed on his old-fashioned pipe.

Suddenly, without any warning, he knocked the nearest man off the car, and with a second blow floored the other. A friend of Bill's riding on the inside of the car rushed to the door and offered to help him.

"You can't help me," said Bill calmly. "You might ring for an ambulance to care for those two city rubes. You'll find one about a block back."—Popular Magazine.

C. K. LAMOND

WINS HIGHEST SCORE IN LOCAL DAIRY TEST BY INSPECTOR.

Is Given 91 Points, Which Equals the Best Made by Any Plant in Entire State.

Charles K. Lamond, the Massac dairyman, is receiving the congratulations of his friends today over the splendid report given his dairy by the state pure food inspector, who visited all the local dairies a few days ago. On method and equipment Mr. Lamond scored the highest point given any of the dairies in west Kentucky, and but one or two in the whole state equal it. He was given 91 points out of a possible 100. Mr. Lamond has been in the dairy business but one year, and his success is but evidence of the knowledge and experience he has applied to the erection and equipment and maintenance of the plant. He has naturally built up a big business in the short time he has operated and is preparing now for the rapid growth he is achieving the past few months.

SOBER HORSE

WAS RIDDEN TO BAR BY VAN STUDDIFFORD.

He Wished the Reporters Were
Girls, So He Could Kiss
Them All.

St. Louis, Sept. 19.—Charles Van
Studdifford, member of an old St.
Louis family, former husband of Grace, the comic opera star, and at present under suspicion of having written a book, not yet published, was arrested while trying to ride on horseback into the bar of the La-cledo hotel.

The affair created some excitement in the vicinity. Van Studdifford explained he wanted to "buy" a drink.

He wore a full equestrian outfit, including white stock, riding boots and breeches and several pieces of jewelry. He did not rein up his horse at the curb and dismount, as is customary here, even on Saturday night.

Straight for the door of the taproom strode the faithful steed, but whether his rider intended ordering a "horse's neck" for the animal and a plain beer for himself or whether he merely sought a white soda for his own use and some "buck" beer for Dublin is not known.

Alas, there was one pedestrian who did not flee, even at the apparition of a leading citizen entering the bar-room via horseback. It was Patrolman William Murphy, of the central district, and he knew there was nothing in the manual which permitted such vaudeville in St.
Louis.

He accordingly proceeded to arrest the rider and horse and to hale Van Studdifford to police headquarters, where he was locked in a cell to answer a charge of driving on the sidewalk. The horse was considered an accessory before, during and after the act, but evidently not an out did he care and made no statement concerning the affair.

When Van Studdifford was questioned before reporters he said: "I rode up to get a drink."

The reporters continued their questions and Van Studdifford remarked: "If you were girls I would kill you all." He then changed his tone and volunteered to spit in anybody's eye.

The horse was sober.
